

WASHINGTONVILLE
WRITE-UPS

By Peter M. Herold.

Fred Piller was home from Palestine a few days last week.

Phillip Bowman of Lorain spent a few days here with his mother.

John W. Paele was home from the West Virginia mines over Sunday.

The Y. & O. is now issuing tickets from Salem to East Liverpool for 90 cts. Mrs. Amelia Thompson is in Salem caring for her invalid sister, Mrs. J. P. Moore.

Stealing was so good Sunday forenoon that Carl Weikert bought J. C. Eyster's cutter.

Herb Tietlow and daughter Lizzie and Miss Emma Hoops of Salem visited friends here Sunday.

The wrestling match announced for last Saturday night did not come off for want of an audience.

A road law that rescues country people, but cannot be enforced in towns is unfair and ought to be repealed.

Master Edwin Fitzpatrick has constructed a triangular snow plough and used it for the first time Saturday.

A miscellaneous shower was had at the home of E. E. Warner Friday night for the benefit of Hugh Dalrymple and wife.

Many favorable comments have been made over the rendition of "Jesus, Savior, Pilot Me," as sung and played by the Bell Ringers in the M. E. Church.

Cleaver Wilson came from Lebanon a few weeks ago and bought a jug of whiskey and when he returned to the county seat, officer Pannier put him in jail. But now Wilson sees the Lebanon council for $4 worth of booze, which is said to have been stolen from the jail during his incarceration.

If Paul's letter to Timothy is in the "bible," correctly speaking, then I yield to the correspondent from West Austintown. The "scriptures" are given in the old testament and the "gospel" is given in the new, and many persons whose names are not Timothy take Paul's advice, even when there's nothing wrong with their stomachs.

Jos. Matzenbaugh and Jerry Kindig, two well disposed young farmers of this neighborhood, left Saturday night for Sunday night destined for Bellingham, Wash., on Puget Sound, where John Walters has extensive coal interests.

Jos. and Jerry intended going as far as St. Paul, Minn., where they would board a train on the Great Northern R. R., which will land them in Everett, the northern terminus of the road.

This is the greatest timber and shingle country in the world. A few miles further north in British Columbia and Alberta is a colony of young men from the country east of Washington.

John Matzenbaugh has brought suit at Lebanon for divorce against her husband, Marshall J. Kale. The plaintiff was formerly Miss Edith Longbottom of this village and was married three years ago. She asks for a divorce on the grounds of neglect and failure to support.

The Lebanon Buckeye publishes a list of 1172 parcels of land, lots and parts of lots in Columbiana county on the delinquent tax list; only 11 of which are in Washingtonville.

Representative R. S. Tidrick of Carroll county has introduced a bill that all notes, bonds, certificates of deposit, etc., must be registered for taxation, or they will not be collectible.

Friends here of Prof. T. S. Orr are pleased to learn that the Columbiana board of education had the good judgment to exonerate him from the charges of being a dope fiend. When president of Poland seminary Prof. Orr delivered the class address before our school graduates and then secured the good will of our people such as will be hard to efface.

The Turner Art Exhibit, consisting of 200 large pictures, valued at $5,000, is here and will be placed on exhibition at the high school room next Wednesday, Thursday and Friday nights, for which an admission of 10 cents will be charged, and the money thus realized will be retained by the school for the purchase of pictures. A short literary program will be given before each evening exhibit.

The case of John Hutchinson, as administrator of Wm. Brooks, against the Peerless Coal Co. for $10,000, was on trial at Lebanon Tuesday and was decided in favor of the defendant company. The following witnesses were in attendance: State Mine Inspector of Columbus, I. N. Russell of Salem, Myron Davis, Ambrose Coppard, Wm. Senior, John Fallow, James Atkinson, Sam. Washington, George Summerville and son George, all of this village, together with the following outsiders: Jas. Atkinson, Jr., Fred Longbottom, John Needham, Wm. and Jacob Tetlow.

Word reaches here from the court records at Lebanon that L. F. Mellinger of East Palestine has brought suit against George A. Whitcomb, Regal & Staidt, Sam. Washington and Oretta Reed each claim some interest in the property, which the plaintiff asks that they set up or be forever barred. All the parties above named are well known here.

A map of Columbiana county by townships, cities and villages, has been ordered by the county commissioners for the next decennial reappraisal in 1910.

County Surveyor Morris B. French assisted by Mrs. Jennie McKillen, the county abstractor and three draughtsmen, were employed and have already commenced their slow and difficult task. Every farm, lot and fraction will show with its owner's name at the time of reappraisal as it appears upon the county records. It appears that some lots and lands in Washingtonville need correcting and now will be an opportune time to consult the county surveyor, instead of vainly attempting to have it done by the village council, although the town and school districts are both interested in the correctness of the map, and that no land or lot escapes its share of taxes.

The Washingtonville entertainment course grows in popularity with each attraction, and this season's course is even more attractive than last year's. The Illinois Glee Club was the attraction last Thursday night and their program was so varied that no one could object on account of the monotony. The vocal music and the trombone solo were commonplace, but the triple tongue of the saxophone player and the readings were above average.

Dr. R. B. Reitzel will give his travel talks Saturday night, Jan. 30. At least a month's reading can be saved by hearing him.

Our old friend and townsman, William Boston, has a copy of "The Telegraphic and Daily Advertiser," printed at Baltimore by Thomas Dobbin, No. 6, Market street Monday morning, June 10, 1805, at seven dollars per annum. The paper is slightly frayed by handling and is yellow with age. The pages are 13 by 30 inches, 5 columns to a page and four pages to the paper. The first and fourth pages are given over to advertising notices of sail ships, the Union Bank of Maryland, imported dry goods from Bristol, Second Presbyterian church, others for the benefit of orphanage, Acts of the Council and of the Legislature, market prices at Newbern (N. C.), the Baltimore Theater, the last night this evening, June 10, will be presented the celebrated tragedy in 5 acts, called "The Fair Penitent." A new encyclopedia and a book of travels in Greece in the fourth century before the Christian era; a notice to the voters of the city and county of Baltimore, and Elizabeth Elliot advertises a crayon coat. The type is from the "49" and "49" alike. Among the very few local news items is that "Aaron Burr Esq., arrived at Cincinnati (Ohio) on the 10th ult., and remained 2 or 3 days and then descended the Ohio on his way to New Orleans." The editorial page contains a four-column letter from Thomas Paine, dated four days previous. History records the fact that Mr. Paine died four years after this letter was written; June 8, 1809, about 100 years ago; while this old newspaper is 104 years old. In its day it was probably the most important publication in the town, but it is now a mere relic, and the leaves are carefully turned by the lady in charge.

The clay plant was closed Tuesday for repairs.

O. C. Weikert shipped a car of wheat to Toledo.

The mud dog scare has not yet struck this village.

A school drama entitled "Strife" will be given Feb. 5 and 6.

Harvey, 8-year-old son of E. E. Feicht and wife, has tonsillitis.

Edwin Todd was in Youngstown Monday renewing his engineer's license.

Miss Maggie Eyster of Hubbard is visiting relatives here and at Columbiana.

Rev. James Herbert went to Cleveland Monday to visit his daughter, Mrs. Nellie Brady.

Paul and Thomas Summerville have closed their meat market here and may start in Sebring.

Thos. Dalrymple and son Hugh spent Sunday at the bedside of Geo. Ashman in East Palestine.

Chas. Stouffer and Miss Sadie Spear saw the play, Lena Rivers, in Youngstown Monday night.

Miss Edith Curry, teacher in room No. 1, spent Saturday and Sunday at her home in East Palestine.

The gross receipts of the Lutheran supper Saturday night, despite inclement weather, were more than $12.

Miss Edith Roller of Youngstown, and Burt Weikert and wife of Leetonia spent Sunday here with relatives.

Cliff Wilderson hauled a forest tree through here this morning to be planted at an east end residence in Leetonia.

Miss Louise Knutti, aged 13 years, of Leetonia, was taken to the Fairmount Children's Home near Alliance, Monday.

Chas. E. Zimmerman, formerly of Franklin Square, now of Lipscomb county, Texas, is visiting his sister in Leetonia.

Abner Stouffer and Harvey Baker took advantage of the good sledding on Tuesday and hauled a carload of agricultural lime to Stouffer's farm.

John Blackburn has constructed an ingenious collapsible crate for fruit and vegetables, suitable for shipment and storage. They can be made very cheaply.

East Palestine last Friday attending the K. of P. convention, John Berry called to see George Ashman, a member of Welcome lodge, who is helpless with creeping paralysis.

Orion lodge, I. O. O. F., installed the following officers Monday night: E. H. Leonard, M. E. O'Clock, Thos. Holland, V. G. C. E. Bertolotto, financial secretary; C. S. Reed, recording secretary.

E. E. Feicht was in Cleveland on Sunday visiting at the home of his brother Jonas, and also called at St. Luke's hospital to see his sister Emma, who is recovering nicely from a recent operation.

The most sensible convention, and promising a deal and some results, is the Corn Institute to be held in Salem this week, beginning Friday. The object is to improve the quality and quantity of this important cereal.

Mrs. Edith M. Kale has brought suit at Lebanon for divorce against her husband, Marshall J. Kale. The plaintiff was formerly Miss Edith Longbottom of this village and was married three years ago. She asks for a divorce on the grounds of neglect and failure to support.

The Lebanon Buckeye publishes a list of 1172 parcels of land, lots and parts of lots in Columbiana county on the delinquent tax list; only 11 of which are in Washingtonville.

Representative R. S. Tidrick of Carroll county has introduced a bill that all notes, bonds, certificates of deposit, etc., must be registered for taxation, or they will not be collectible.

Friends here of Prof. T. S. Orr are pleased to learn that the Columbiana board of education had the good judgment to exonerate him from the charges of being a dope fiend. When president of Poland seminary Prof. Orr delivered the class address before our school graduates and then secured the good will of our people such as will be hard to efface.

The Turner Art Exhibit, consisting of 200 large pictures, valued at $5,000, is here and will be placed on exhibition at the high school room next Wednesday, Thursday and Friday nights, for which an admission of 10 cents will be charged, and the money thus realized will be retained by the school for the purchase of pictures. A short literary program will be given before each evening exhibit.

The case of John Hutchinson, as administrator of Wm. Brooks, against the Peerless Coal Co. for $10,000, was on trial at Lebanon Tuesday and was decided in favor of the defendant company. The following witnesses were in attendance: State Mine Inspector of Columbus, I. N. Russell of Salem, Myron Davis, Ambrose Coppard, Wm. Senior, John Fallow, James Atkinson, Sam. Washington, George Summerville and son George, all of this village, together with the following outsiders: Jas. Atkinson, Jr., Fred Longbottom, John Needham, Wm. and Jacob Tetlow.

Word reaches here from the court records at Lebanon that L. F. Mellinger of East Palestine has brought suit against George A. Whitcomb, Regal & Staidt, Sam. Washington and Oretta Reed each claim some interest in the property, which the plaintiff asks that they set up or be forever barred. All the parties above named are well known here.

A map of Columbiana county by townships, cities and villages, has been ordered by the county commissioners for the next decennial reappraisal in 1910.

County Surveyor Morris B. French assisted by Mrs. Jennie McKillen, the county abstractor and three draughtsmen, were employed and have already commenced their slow and difficult task. Every farm, lot and fraction will show with its owner's name at the time of reappraisal as it appears upon the county records. It appears that some lots and lands in Washingtonville need correcting and now will be an opportune time to consult the county surveyor, instead of vainly attempting to have it done by the village council, although the town and school districts are both interested in the correctness of the map, and that no land or lot escapes its share of taxes.

The Washingtonville entertainment course grows in popularity with each attraction, and this season's course is even more attractive than last year's. The Illinois Glee Club was the attraction last Thursday night and their program was so varied that no one could object on account of the monotony. The vocal music and the trombone solo were commonplace, but the triple tongue of the saxophone player and the readings were above average.

Dr. R. B. Reitzel will give his travel talks Saturday night, Jan. 30. At least a month's reading can be saved by hearing him.

Our old friend and townsman, William Boston, has a copy of "The Telegraphic and Daily Advertiser," printed at Baltimore by Thomas Dobbin, No. 6, Market street Monday morning, June 10, 1805, at seven dollars per annum. The paper is slightly frayed by handling and is yellow with age. The pages are 13 by 30 inches, 5 columns to a page and four pages to the paper. The first and fourth pages are given over to advertising notices of sail ships, the Union Bank of Maryland, imported dry goods from Bristol, Second Presbyterian church, others for the benefit of orphanage, Acts of the Council and of the Legislature, market prices at Newbern (N. C.), the Baltimore Theater, the last night this evening, June 10, will be presented the celebrated tragedy in 5 acts, called "The Fair Penitent." A new encyclopedia and a book of travels in Greece in the fourth century before the Christian era; a notice to the voters of the city and county of Baltimore, and Elizabeth Elliot advertises a crayon coat. The type is from the "49" and "49" alike. Among the very few local news items is that "Aaron Burr Esq., arrived at Cincinnati (Ohio) on the 10th ult., and remained 2 or 3 days and then descended the Ohio on his way to New Orleans." The editorial page contains a four-column letter from Thomas Paine, dated four days previous. History records the fact that Mr. Paine died four years after this letter was written; June 8, 1809, about 100 years ago; while this old newspaper is 104 years old. In its day it was probably the most important publication in the town, but it is now a mere relic, and the leaves are carefully turned by the lady in charge.

Our old friend and townsman, William Boston, has a copy of "The Telegraphic and Daily Advertiser," printed at Baltimore by Thomas Dobbin, No. 6, Market street Monday morning, June 10, 1805, at seven dollars per annum. The paper is slightly frayed by handling and is yellow with age. The pages are 13 by 30 inches, 5 columns to a page and four pages to the paper. The first and fourth pages are given over to advertising notices of sail ships, the Union Bank of Maryland, imported dry goods from Bristol, Second Presbyterian church, others for the benefit of orphanage, Acts of the Council and of the Legislature, market prices at Newbern (N. C.), the Baltimore Theater, the last night this evening, June 10, will be presented the celebrated tragedy in 5 acts, called "The Fair Penitent." A new encyclopedia and a book of travels in Greece in the fourth century before the Christian era; a notice to the voters of the city and county of Baltimore, and Elizabeth Elliot advertises a crayon coat. The type is from the "49" and "49" alike. Among the very few local news items is that "Aaron Burr Esq., arrived at Cincinnati (Ohio) on the 10th ult., and remained 2 or 3 days and then descended the Ohio on his way to New Orleans." The editorial page contains a four-column letter from Thomas Paine, dated four days previous. History records the fact that Mr. Paine died four years after this letter was written; June 8, 1809, about 100 years ago; while this old newspaper is 104 years old. In its day it was probably the most important publication in the town, but it is now a mere relic, and the leaves are carefully turned by the lady in charge.

Our old friend and townsman, William Boston, has a copy of "The Telegraphic and Daily Advertiser," printed at Baltimore by Thomas Dobbin, No. 6, Market street Monday morning, June 10, 1805, at seven dollars per annum. The paper is slightly frayed by handling and is yellow with age. The pages are 13 by 30 inches, 5 columns to a page and four pages to the paper. The first and fourth pages are given over to advertising notices of sail ships, the Union Bank of Maryland, imported dry goods from Bristol, Second Presbyterian church, others for the benefit of orphanage, Acts of the Council and of the Legislature, market prices at Newbern (N. C.), the Baltimore Theater, the last night this evening, June 10, will be presented the celebrated tragedy in 5 acts, called "The Fair Penitent." A new encyclopedia and a book of travels in Greece in the fourth century before the Christian era; a notice to the voters of the city and county of Baltimore, and Elizabeth Elliot advertises a crayon coat. The type is from the "49" and "49" alike. Among the very few local news items is that "Aaron Burr Esq., arrived at Cincinnati (Ohio) on the 10th ult., and remained 2 or 3 days and then descended the Ohio on his way to New Orleans." The editorial page contains a four-column letter from Thomas Paine, dated four days previous. History records the fact that Mr. Paine died four years after this letter was written; June 8, 1809, about 100 years ago; while this old newspaper is 104 years old. In its day it was probably the most important publication in the town, but it is now a mere relic, and the leaves are carefully turned by the lady in charge.

Our old friend and townsman, William Boston, has a copy of "The Telegraphic and Daily Advertiser," printed at Baltimore by Thomas Dobbin, No. 6, Market street Monday morning, June 10, 1805, at seven dollars per annum. The paper is slightly frayed by handling and is yellow with age. The pages are 13 by 30 inches, 5 columns to a page and four pages to the paper. The first and fourth pages are given over to advertising notices of sail ships, the Union Bank of Maryland, imported dry goods from Bristol, Second Presbyterian church, others for the benefit of orphanage, Acts of the Council and of the Legislature, market prices at Newbern (N. C.), the Baltimore Theater, the last night this evening, June 10, will be presented the celebrated tragedy in 5 acts, called "The Fair Penitent." A new encyclopedia and a book of travels in Greece in the fourth century before the Christian era; a notice to the voters of the city and county of Baltimore, and Elizabeth Elliot advertises a crayon coat. The type is from the "49" and "49" alike. Among the very few local news items is that "Aaron Burr Esq., arrived at Cincinnati (Ohio) on the 10th ult., and remained 2 or 3 days and then descended the Ohio on his way to New Orleans." The editorial page contains a four-column letter from Thomas Paine, dated four days previous. History records the fact that Mr. Paine died four years after this letter was written; June 8, 1809, about 100 years ago; while this old newspaper is 104 years old. In its day it was probably the most important publication in the town, but it is now a mere relic, and the leaves are carefully turned by the lady in charge.

Our old friend and townsman, William Boston, has a copy of "The Telegraphic and Daily Advertiser," printed at Baltimore by Thomas Dobbin, No. 6, Market street Monday morning, June 10, 1805, at seven dollars per annum. The paper is slightly frayed by handling and is yellow with age. The pages are 13 by 30 inches, 5 columns to a page and four pages to the paper. The first and fourth pages are given over to advertising notices of sail ships, the Union Bank of Maryland, imported dry goods from Bristol, Second Presbyterian church, others for the benefit of orphanage, Acts of the Council and of the Legislature, market prices at Newbern (N. C.), the Baltimore Theater, the last night this evening, June 10, will be presented the celebrated tragedy in 5 acts, called "The Fair Penitent." A new encyclopedia and a book of travels in Greece in the fourth century before the Christian era; a notice to the voters of the city and county of Baltimore, and Elizabeth Elliot advertises a crayon coat. The type is from the "49" and "49" alike. Among the very few local news items is that "Aaron Burr Esq., arrived at Cincinnati (Ohio) on the 10th ult., and remained 2 or 3 days and then descended the Ohio on his way to New Orleans." The editorial page contains a four-column letter from Thomas Paine, dated four days previous. History records the fact that Mr. Paine died four years after this letter was written; June 8, 1809, about 100 years ago; while this old newspaper is 104 years old. In its day it was probably the most important publication in the town, but it is now a mere relic, and the leaves are carefully turned by the lady in charge.

Our old friend and townsman, William Boston, has a copy of "The Telegraphic and Daily Advertiser," printed at Baltimore by Thomas Dobbin, No. 6, Market street Monday morning, June 10, 1805, at seven dollars per annum. The paper is slightly frayed by handling and is yellow with age. The pages are 13 by 30 inches, 5 columns to a page and four pages to the paper. The first and fourth pages are given over to advertising notices of sail ships, the Union Bank of Maryland, imported dry goods from Bristol, Second Presbyterian church, others for the benefit of orphanage, Acts of the Council and of the Legislature, market prices at Newbern (N. C.), the Baltimore Theater, the last night this evening, June 10, will be presented the celebrated tragedy in 5 acts, called "The Fair Penitent." A new encyclopedia and a book of travels in Greece in the fourth century before the Christian era; a notice to the voters of the city and county of Baltimore, and Elizabeth Elliot advertises a crayon coat. The type is from the "49" and "49" alike. Among the very few local news items is that "Aaron Burr Esq., arrived at Cincinnati (Ohio) on the 10th ult., and remained 2 or 3 days and then descended the Ohio on his way to New Orleans." The editorial page contains a four-column letter from Thomas Paine, dated four days previous. History records the fact that Mr. Paine died four years after this letter was written; June 8, 1809, about 100 years ago; while this old newspaper is 104 years old. In its day it was probably the most important publication in the town, but it is now a mere relic, and the leaves are carefully turned by the lady in charge.

Our old friend and townsman, William Boston, has a copy of "The Telegraphic and Daily Advertiser," printed at Baltimore by Thomas Dobbin, No. 6, Market street Monday morning, June 10, 1805, at seven dollars per annum. The paper is slightly frayed by handling and is yellow with age. The pages are 13 by 30 inches, 5 columns to a page and four pages to the paper. The first and fourth pages are given over to advertising notices of sail ships, the Union Bank of Maryland, imported dry goods from Bristol, Second Presbyterian church, others for the benefit of orphanage, Acts of the Council and of the Legislature, market prices at Newbern (N. C.), the Baltimore Theater, the last night this evening, June 10, will be presented the celebrated tragedy in 5 acts, called "The Fair Penitent." A new encyclopedia and a book of travels in Greece in the fourth century before the Christian era; a notice to the voters of the city and county of Baltimore, and Elizabeth Elliot advertises a crayon coat. The type is from the "49" and "49" alike. Among the very few local news items is that "Aaron Burr Esq., arrived at Cincinnati (Ohio) on the 10th ult., and remained 2 or 3 days and then descended the Ohio on his way to New Orleans." The editorial page contains a four-column letter from Thomas Paine, dated four days previous. History records the fact that Mr. Paine died four years after this letter was written; June 8, 1809, about 100 years ago; while this old newspaper is 104 years old. In its day it was probably the most important publication in the town, but it is now a mere relic, and the leaves are carefully turned by the lady in charge.

Our old friend and townsman, William Boston, has a copy of "The Telegraphic and Daily Advertiser," printed at Baltimore by Thomas Dobbin, No. 6, Market street Monday morning, June 10, 1805, at seven dollars per annum. The paper is slightly frayed by handling and is yellow with age. The pages are 13 by 30 inches, 5 columns to a page and four pages to the paper. The first and fourth pages are given over to advertising notices of sail ships, the Union Bank of Maryland, imported dry goods from Bristol, Second Presbyterian church, others for the benefit of orphanage, Acts of the Council and of the Legislature, market prices at Newbern (N. C.), the Baltimore Theater, the last night this evening, June 10, will be presented the celebrated tragedy in 5 acts, called "The Fair Penitent." A new encyclopedia and a book of travels in Greece in the fourth century before the Christian era; a notice to the voters of the city and county of Baltimore, and Elizabeth Elliot advertises a crayon coat. The type is from the "49" and "49" alike. Among the very few local news items is that "Aaron Burr Esq., arrived at Cincinnati (Ohio) on the 10th ult., and remained 2 or 3 days and then descended the Ohio on his way to New Orleans." The editorial page contains a four-column letter from Thomas Paine, dated four days previous. History records the fact that Mr. Paine died four years after this letter was written; June 8, 1809, about 100 years ago; while this old newspaper is 104 years old. In its day it was probably the most important publication in the town, but it is now a mere relic, and the leaves are carefully turned by the lady in charge.

Our old friend and townsman, William Boston, has a copy of "The Telegraphic and Daily Advertiser," printed at Baltimore by Thomas Dobbin, No. 6, Market street Monday morning, June 10, 1805, at seven dollars per annum. The paper is slightly frayed by handling and is yellow with age. The pages are 13 by 30 inches, 5 columns to a page and four pages to the paper. The first and fourth pages are given over to advertising notices of sail ships, the Union Bank of Maryland, imported dry goods from Bristol, Second Presbyterian church, others for the benefit of orphanage, Acts of the Council and of the Legislature, market prices at Newbern (N. C.), the Baltimore Theater, the last night this evening, June 10, will be presented the celebrated tragedy in 5 acts, called "The Fair Penitent." A new encyclopedia and a book of travels in Greece in the fourth century before the Christian era; a notice to the voters of the city and county of Baltimore, and Elizabeth Elliot advertises a crayon coat. The type is from the "49" and "49" alike. Among the very few local news items is that "Aaron Burr Esq., arrived at Cincinnati (Ohio) on the 10th ult., and remained 2 or 3 days and then descended the Ohio on his way to New Orleans." The editorial page contains a four-column letter from Thomas Paine, dated four days previous. History records the fact that Mr. Paine died four years after this letter was written; June 8, 1809, about 100 years ago; while this old newspaper is 104 years old. In its day it was probably the most important publication in the town, but it is now a mere relic, and the leaves are carefully turned by the lady in charge.

Our old friend and townsman, William Boston, has a copy of "The Telegraphic and Daily Advertiser," printed at Baltimore by Thomas Dobbin, No. 6, Market street Monday morning, June 10, 1805, at seven dollars per annum. The paper is slightly frayed by handling and is yellow with age. The pages are 13 by 30 inches, 5 columns to a page and four pages to the paper. The first and fourth pages are given over to advertising notices of sail ships, the Union Bank of Maryland, imported dry goods from Bristol, Second Presbyterian church, others for the benefit of orphanage, Acts of the Council and of the Legislature, market prices at Newbern (N. C.), the Baltimore Theater, the last night this evening, June 10, will be presented the celebrated tragedy in 5 acts, called "The Fair Penitent." A new encyclopedia and a book of travels in Greece in the fourth century before the Christian era; a notice to the voters of the city and county of Baltimore, and Elizabeth Elliot advertises a crayon coat. The type is from the "49" and "49" alike. Among the very few local news items is that "Aaron Burr Esq., arrived at Cincinnati (Ohio) on the 10th ult., and remained 2 or 3 days and then descended the Ohio on his way to New Orleans." The editorial page contains a four-column letter from Thomas Paine, dated four days previous. History records the fact that Mr. Paine died four years after this letter was written; June 8, 1809, about 100 years ago; while this old newspaper is 104 years old. In its day it was probably the most important publication in the town, but it is now a mere relic, and the leaves are carefully turned by the lady in charge.

Our old friend and townsman, William Boston, has a copy of "The Telegraphic and Daily Advertiser," printed at Baltimore by Thomas Dobbin, No. 6, Market street Monday morning, June 10, 1805, at seven dollars per annum. The paper is slightly frayed by handling and is yellow with age. The pages are 13 by 30 inches, 5 columns to a page and four pages to the paper. The first and fourth pages are given over to advertising notices of sail ships, the Union Bank of Maryland, imported dry goods from Bristol, Second Presbyterian church, others for the benefit of orphanage, Acts of the Council and of the Legislature, market prices at Newbern (N. C.), the Baltimore Theater, the last night this evening, June 10, will be presented the celebrated tragedy in 5 acts, called "The Fair Penitent." A new encyclopedia and a book of travels in Greece in the fourth century before the Christian era; a notice to the voters of the city and county of Baltimore, and Elizabeth Elliot advertises a crayon coat. The type is from the "49" and "49" alike. Among the very few local news items is that "Aaron Burr Esq., arrived at Cincinnati (Ohio) on the 10th ult., and remained 2 or 3 days and then descended the Ohio on his way to New Orleans." The editorial page contains a four-column letter from Thomas Paine, dated four days previous. History records the fact that Mr. Paine died four years after this letter was written; June 8, 1809, about 100 years ago; while this old newspaper is 104 years old. In its day it was probably the most important publication in the town, but it is now a mere relic, and the leaves are carefully turned by the lady in charge.

Our old friend and townsman, William Boston, has a copy of "The Telegraphic and Daily Advertiser," printed at Baltimore by Thomas Dobbin, No. 6, Market street Monday morning, June 10, 1805, at seven dollars per annum. The paper is slightly frayed by handling and is yellow with age. The pages are 13 by 30 inches, 5 columns to a page and four pages to the paper. The first and fourth pages are given over to advertising notices of sail ships, the Union Bank of Maryland, imported dry goods from Bristol, Second Presbyterian church, others for the benefit of orphanage, Acts of the Council and of the Legislature, market prices at Newbern (N. C.), the Baltimore Theater, the last night this evening, June 10, will be presented the celebrated tragedy in 5 acts, called "The Fair Penitent." A new encyclopedia and a book of travels in Greece in the fourth century before the Christian era; a notice to the voters of the city and county of Baltimore, and Elizabeth Elliot advertises a crayon coat. The type is from the "49" and "49" alike. Among the very few local news items is that "Aaron Burr Esq., arrived at Cincinnati (Ohio) on the 10th ult., and remained 2 or 3 days and then descended the Ohio on his way to New Orleans." The editorial page contains a four-column letter from Thomas Paine, dated four days previous. History records the fact that Mr. Paine died four years after this letter was written; June 8, 1809, about 100 years ago; while this old newspaper is 104 years old. In its day it was probably the most important publication in the town, but it is now a mere relic, and the leaves are carefully turned by the lady in charge.

Our old friend and townsman, William Boston, has a copy of "The Telegraphic and Daily Advertiser," printed at Baltimore by Thomas Dobbin, No. 6, Market street Monday morning, June 10, 1805, at seven dollars per annum. The paper is slightly frayed by handling and is yellow with age. The pages are 13 by 30 inches, 5 columns to a page and four pages to the paper. The first and fourth pages are given over to advertising notices of sail ships, the Union Bank of Maryland, imported dry goods from Bristol, Second Presbyterian church, others for the benefit of orphanage, Acts of the Council and of the Legislature, market prices at Newbern (N. C.), the Baltimore Theater, the last night this evening, June 10, will be presented the celebrated tragedy in 5 acts, called "The Fair Penitent." A new encyclopedia and a book of travels in Greece in the fourth century before the Christian era; a notice to the voters of the city and county of Baltimore, and Elizabeth Elliot advertises a crayon coat. The type is from the "49" and "49" alike. Among the very few local news items is that "Aaron Burr Esq., arrived at Cincinnati (Ohio) on the 10th ult., and remained 2 or 3 days and then descended the Ohio on his way to New Orleans." The editorial page contains a four-column letter from Thomas Paine, dated four days previous. History records the fact that Mr. Paine died four years after this letter was written; June 8, 1809, about 100 years ago; while this old newspaper is 104 years old. In its day it was probably the most important publication in the town, but it is now a mere relic, and the leaves are carefully turned by the lady in charge.

Don Campbell Killed.

Don Campbell, aged about 35 and married, was instantly killed by a fall of slate in the Millville mine at 5 o'clock this (Thursday) morning. No further details are given and no arrangements have been made for the funeral.

Miners at the Rattlesnake mine are "squaring up" today.

Warren Wilson was home from Bradstock, Pa., a short time Wednesday.

Chas. Boon, clerk in the Klondike thirteenth floor, went to Cincinnati this morning.

Mrs. George Summerville and her daughter, Mrs. Elmer Wendle, are visiting in Youngstown.

Burt DeJand and wife will take a trolley ride to Youngstown this evening to do some shopping and see "Way Down East."

The postoffice department requests that all teachers instruct their pupils how to address letters correctly, as 13,000,000 letters were sent to the dead letter office last year.

The mining situation looks more encouraging than a month ago. The lake trade having closed, led several cargoes to be distributed to Cleveland and Toledo, which reduced orders from the local mines. This having been about all consumed, creates another demand for coal.

An agent of the Anti-Saloon League was here Wednesday securing facts and figures preparatory to opening a campaign in the early spring, when outdoor meetings can be held. He said he is not anti-beer or anti-whisky, but simply anti-liquor, and that the league does not propose to attempt to legislate as to people's appetites, concerning what they shall eat or what they shall drink, but regards the open saloon as a rendezvous for vice and immorality, which must stop if good government is to continue.

Our hackmen will hold an indignation meeting over the kidnaped bride-groom affair.

Homer Baldwin won't bleach his flour. However, there are bleached flowers in town.

Eggs are slowly falling but our grocers see that they don't fall fast enough to break.

City council will probably run across some burrs when it tries to open Chestnut street.

Has the necessity of six extra coppers anything to do with Trumbull county going dry?

Joe Weiss is lighting a small part of the Public Square every night free of cost to the city.